

Statistics show that 1 in 3 families will be affected by

SUBSTANCE USE DISORDER

Yet, this disease still falls under the same stigma once associated with breast cancer, AIDS, and more recently, with mental health disorders.

If a friend were to confide in you could you:

- Realize and Understand the physiological differences in the brains of addicts
- Respond with the same empathy and compassion you would show to a family affected by cancer
- Offer help, hope and support by directing them to local resources
